VENDETTA'S FAST WORK

Her Performance Set New Record for Long Road Race in New England.

By C. J. FITZGERALD.

While no effort has been made by the Jockey Club to participate in the enfurance tests of 300 miles held annually furance tests of 300 m less held annually in the East for some years past and in the West in 1922, the thoroughbreds taking part in them competing in the names of individuals or in a few instances for the Federal Remount Service, the result of the competitions this year in New England and Colorado have been received with unmixed satisfaction by admirers of the horse of blood. In winning their respective tests Ven-

Her weight before starting was 1,012½ pounds and at the finish 972, a loss of 40½ pounds, the least of any one of the twenty-one competitors, some of which had a shrinkage of 125 pounds.

Winner Bred in Vermont.

Vendetta was bred by Capt. J. Watson Webb at his stud near Shelburn. Vt.. and she started in the race as his property. She was broken at 3 and hunted at 4, 5 and 6 years of age. In 1929 she was played in polo practice, her owser being one of the leading experts at the game in this country and a member of the crack international four. She was a little too big for this purpose, however, and was returned to the farm. owever, and was returned to the farm, where she ran with he other hunters

Vendetta was not asked to carry the full weight called for by the terms of the test, and in all her work she was idden by a man weighing 160 pounds. Hidden by a man weighing 160 pounds. Her daily stint was from twelve to sixteen miles. This is all the preparation she had for the ordeal through which she came with such credit to herself, the breed she represents and her gallant rider, who is given a full measure of credit by everybody for the part he played in achieving the notable victory.

Vendetta Royally Bred.

Something of the blood lines of Vendet-ta will be interesting. Her sire, Allan-a-Dale was by Heima, son of Hanover and Julia L., by Longfellow, one of Leam-ington's best sons. The dam of Allan-a-l'ale was Sudie McNairy, by Enquirer, another good son of Leamington, Heima went the Kentucky Derby, and so did won the Kentucky Derby, and so did Allan-a-Dale. The former was taken to France by W. K. Vanderbilt, where his blood enriched the thoroughbred families owned pacers of Arcostock county. Maine, got themselves into the turf of that republic. In winning their respective tests Vendetta and Norfolk Star have only been living up to the traditions of their kind in every country on the globe. In the New England test the twenty-one horses started in admirable condition. They were ridden by experts. Their task was a daily grind of sixty miles for five days, with a maximum of nine hours for its accomplishment and a penalty of cone-fifteenth of a point for every minute beyond that period. Speed and condition were the only qualifications taken into consideration by the judges, Messrs.

J. Garner West of Garnersville, N. Y.:
Henry L. Bell of Bayside, L. I., and H. M. Hare, master of the Radnor Hunt of Philadelphia. Each horse carried 225 pounds. Ye weather pt times was bad, with snow, rain and hali.

When Vendetta won in 45 hours and 17 minutes, with Major Louis Beard of the Eederal Remeunt Service in the saddle, she established a record for such tests in this country, despite the fact that she carried 235 pounds, her rider hing over weight. Sonthlys about this remarkable mare will be of interest to horse breders everywere. She is a dark how, with a strip in the face and both hind analkes white. Charm has been declared the champion harness horse of England in 1922. Whether the daughter of Field Marshal is coming over to meet her sire in competition for the championship at the National Horse Show, which opens on November 14 in New York, has not yet been announced. But her owner, W. S. Miller, is expected at the Armory and he is not likely to leave the famous hackney high stepper behind if he comes.

To Ride in Running Race

The autumn hunt races held annually under the auspices of the Fairfield and Westchester County Hounds will take place on Saturday, November 11, at James McClenaharis Nutbourne Farm, and M. Roy Jackson, joint masters of the hounds, have arranged a program of six races and a special event for members to test their judgment of pace in riding. The third race will be a dash of six furlongs on the flat for horses ridden by lady members. The follows, will be three miles across country. Entries for all events are to close on November 3 with Guy Carleton, 50 Pine street.
